

#TECH: Online tool for detecting ChatGPT text

By FTX Daily Up · January 25, 2023 @ 12:25pm

The quality of texts written by ChatGPT can fool many people.

As a result of students' growing reliance on ChatGPT — the chatbot that can solve any problem — methods for identifying texts produced by artificial intelligence are starting to take shape.

Draft & Goal is a brand-new ChatGPT content detector.

This French-Canadian initiative can analyse texts and evaluate whether they were written by a human or some form of artificial intelligence, the most advanced of which is ChatGPT.

The tool works with texts written in English and in French.

Although open to everyone, Draft & Goal is mainly intended for teachers.

Many educators no longer know whether the assignments they receive are the work of their students or of artificial intelligence.

ChatGPT is a chatbot that has an answer for everything.

It can answer any question about current affairs or even philosophy, formulate arguments or comment on a text, write a lecture or even write a poem or a song on a given theme.

ChatGPT was created by OpenAI, an American company whose co-founder is Elon Musk. -ETX Daily Up
