On the cover

This is America's moment for an ambitious attempt to deal with climate change: leader, page 7 and briefing, page 13. The freeze in Texas exposes America's failing infrastructure, page 25. John Kerry is a good pick for what may prove to be a chastening task: Lexington, page 30. Governments and business must work together, says Bill Gates, page 64. Cutting carbon in Britain, page 43

- Macron's African mission France wants to avoid a "forever war" in the Sahel. That will take patience, and allies: leader, page 10. After years of fighting, is it time to start talking? Page 34
- Does the craze make sense? SPACs are a mania—and a useful way to take firms public, page 8. Blank-cheque firms are gobbling up capital and companies, page 55 and page 56
- The problem with puberty blockers Prescriptions for these drugs are on the rise. There is little solid evidence about their effects, page 61
